FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

In the parable of the wedding banquet, the room was full of people, no matter where they came from, what they did, or what they failed to do. The same should be true of our church. Pope Francis has referred to it as a 'field hospital', a place of healing and mercy, but far too often we can be a place of judgement and division. The invitation to the banquet is for everyone - even sinners like you and me.

And that is why the persistence of God's invitation is so important. It would be easy for us to dismiss the invitation quickly, noting the ways in which we are not worthy. And yet God continues to invite, to tug at us, to remind us of our inherent goodness. He sends out His messengers with the invitation again and again. Our God does not give up on us.

There seems to be a caveat in Jesus' teaching in the parable, however. Why would a guest be thrown out for not wearing proper attire if the invitation is for everyone? Was Jesus really concerned with what people wore? It's not clear, but given his desire to include everyone, this likely isn't a commentary on fashion or what not to wear to a wedding. Perhaps Jesus is telling us that it is not enough to simply accept the invitation, but that we must go deeper than that. It is not enough to say we are Christians; we are called to live active lives of faith.

Eventually it is up to us to accept the invitation to the feast. To do so is an act of faith in a God who loves us without condition and without reservation. No one is beyond the promise of redemption, and no amount of guilt, shame, or pain can keep us from enjoying the banquet of God's love.

God bless you, Fr. Stan
