WRITINGS FROM DEACON

Very soon the frantic pitch of Medicare insurance supplement ads will be overwhelming. In short order the incessant flurry of Christmas toy ads will permeate. Uninvited advertisements will dominate television, print and social media.

James and John in today's gospel announced their candidacy for authority and influence in Jesus' kingdom. In those days, the everyday person had very little influence on the social structure. The rulers possessed all the power. Input was not invited.

When we pray the "Our Father", we petition your kingdom come your will be done. We ourselves are flawed and fallen. We seek guidance of our intellect and conscience to make decisions reflective of our morals and principles and that they be in line with what God desires. If our ideas prevail or not, the will of God should most definitely be sought after for ourselves and for all the world. Social Justice is an absolute imperative. What that looks like in terms of the safety and security of all people and the dignity of human life is up to each of us.

Saint James and Saint John, pray for us.
